Section First

Art. 1. The founding values of the Italian Embassy School in Beijing (the "School")

The School is a non-profit organization serving the Italian community in Beijing and is based on the following values, which all the School's activities must conform to.

Art. 1.1 - Respect for boys and girls and their cognitive, emotional and psychological development

Each boy and girl (hereafter "children") are a free human being having his/her own distinct and specific individuality and therefore the inalienable title to his/her own rights. Their intelligence and personality must be put in a position to develop freely, without conditions dependent on laws or teaching methodologies, so that the skills, competences and knowledge previously acquired can also be expressed.

The School welcomes disabled children by arranging any suitable form of reception and support.

Art. 1.2 - Respect for the family and the educational community

Parents, teachers, school staff and institutions of reference of the School are jointly responsible for the education of children and constitute, together with them, an educational community. Children learn, formally and informally, from their parents, from their teachers and from the world around them, while parents, teachers and the community in turn learn from children.

The School promotes and fosters communication and the exchange of information as well as activities and events aimed at developing mutually useful relationships between the School and the family.

Art. 1.3 - Respect for the professionalism of the teachers

All teaching staff (including teachers, teaching assistants and cooks) must have the appropriate social and economic recognition for the importance of the tasks they are called to perform. The public service and non-profit nature of the School cannot justify inadequate remunerations.

Art. 1.4 - Respect for merit and community responsibility

The School was created to respond first of all to the needs of the Italian community in Beijing and therefore is based on its support.

Art. 1.5 - Refusal of ideologies

To safeguard the education of its pupils, the School does not allow teaching with specific ideological purposes.

Art. 1.6 - Refusal of permissiveness and moral indifferentism

The School recognizes that error represents a moment in the acquisition of knowledge, however, respecting the intellectual and moral abilities of children, it rejects excessive permissiveness and moral indifferentism.

Art. 1.7 - Refusal of self-reference in the didactic and cultural field

The School must be a vehicle for culture and dialogue between Italy and China and must offer children the opportunity for an experience of study, relationships and cultural exchanges, allowing them to acquire multicultural training, which excludes nationalisms and confessional orientations.

The School is and must always remain open to comparison and the acquisition of other teaching experiences, including non-Italian ones.

Art. 1.8 - Refusal of excessive formalism in relations with pupils and families

The school must work to keep the spirit of the educational community alive and prevent the relationship between teachers, children and families from becoming a cold relationship between suppliers and users.

Art. 2 Knowledge of values

The values expressed in art. 1.1 - 1.8 constitute the School's "Charter of Values", which must be displayed at the entrance of the School and on its website.
